TAMARIND | “PULI” IN TAMIL

Native to India, Tamarind is derived from the Arabic word ‘tamar hind’ meaning Indian Date. In addition to using this tangy fruit in cuisine & cocktails, Tamarind pulp is often used by priests to wash brass and bronze statues of temple gods.

MADRAS COFFEE | “KAAPI” IN TAMIL

Coffee came to India via Baba Budan, an Indian Sufi saint, who smuggled seven coffee beans in his beard on his way back to India from Mecca. One of those beans are in your cocktail.

PINEAPPLE | ANNASI IN SINHALA

Two Truths & a Lie: Only one pineapple is produced by a single plant in a single season. A pineapple is a berry. Spongebob Squarepants lives in a pineapple under the sea.

NUTMEG | SADIKKA IN SINHALA

Eat Pray Love is not native to Bali. Nutmeg is. Consumed in excess, raw nutmeg may lead to intoxication that may last several days.

BANANA | | VALAI IN TAMIL

Banana was harvested to create fabrics in ancient times. It was also used to make paper. Then humans realised that they can eat it too.

PANDAN

Pandan's reputation as a rich source of Vitamin A (an eyesight enhancer) is precisely the reason why we serve it in a cocktail. Have a few of these and you'll never have an hazy evening.

CEYLON TEA

High Tea actually referred to the height of the tables of working class joints where it was served to people looking for a tea and a meal after their shifts.

POL | COCONUT IN SINHALA

Two Truth & a Lie 2.0: There is a wikipedia page called Death by Coconut. In 2013, Maldives police took possession of a coconut believed to have been cursed by black magic. In World War 2, coconut was used an IV drip by one side and as a weapon by another.

Gin & Martinis

Our Gin list is served with Tonic / Sparkling Water. All our Martinis are stirred and not shaken - we do not take cocktail advice from an emotionally unavailable British Spy.
